Introduction

If you own a home service business in Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, or Norfolk, you have probably heard that you need to "be on Google." But here is what nobody tells you: being on Google is not enough. You need to be found.

There is a difference between having a website that exists and having a website that shows up when a homeowner searches "fence repair near me" at 8 PM on a Tuesday.

This guide walks you through the four pillars that actually get local businesses found. It is the same system we use for our clients. And it starts with something you already have access to -- your Google Business Profile.

Pill

Your Google Business Profile (GBP) is your front door. Period. It is the first thing people see when they search for what you do. And most business owners treat it like an afterthought.

Here is the reality: if your GBP is not optimized, you are invisible in the Map Pack -- and the Map Pack is where 80% of local searches end up.

THE 5-MINUTE GBP SELF-AUDIT:

- ☐ Is your business category selected and specific? ("Fence contractor" not just "contractor")
- ☐ Are all your service categories added? (You can add up to 10)
- ☐ Is your phone number correct and local (757 area code)?
- ☐ Do you have at least 10 recent reviews with responses?
- ☐ Have you posted a photo or update in the last 7 days?

If you answered no to any of these, you are leaving leads on the table. These are the basics -- and most of your competitors are not doing them either.

Pill

A hard truth: a website built with a drag-and-drop builder and no SEO strategy is not a marketing asset. It is an online business card.

For Google to show your site in local search results, it needs to understand:

- What you do (clear title tags, meta descriptions, H1 headings)
- Where you do it (city pages, service-area pages, location content)
- That you are real (LocalBusiness schema markup, consistent NAP)

Most home service websites are missing at least two of these three. When Google does not know what your site is about, it does not show it to anyone.

Pill

Most home service businesses have one problem: they only hear from customers when something breaks. The most profitable businesses have the opposite problem -- their customers keep coming back because they remember who to call.

Email is how you stay in front of past clients so they think of you first. A simple monthly email with tips, seasonal reminders, and a subtle "we are here" message can double your repeat business.

You don't need a list of 5,000 people. You need a list of 50 people who have already paid you.

Pill

Facebook is not for getting discovered. It is for being remembered. When a past client sees your post about winterizing pipes, and then their friend asks for a plumber recommendation, guess who they think of?

2-3 posts per week showing your work (before/after photos, project highlights), seasonal reminders (fence maintenance in spring, gutter cleaning in fall), and customer spotlights are enough to keep you top-of-mind.

How This All Fits Together

The four pillars are not separate strategies. They are one system that feeds itself:

- Your GBP gets you into the Map Pack
- Your website converts visitors into leads
- Your email turns one-time customers into repeat buyers
- Your Facebook keeps you top-of-mind between services

When all four are working together, you don't need to chase customers. They find you.

Nex

Most businesses get stuck on pillar 1. If your GBP is not optimized, fix that first -- it is free, it is fast, and it has the highest return on time invested.

From there, each pillar compounds on the previous one. The Essential plan builds one pillar at a time. The Top Tier plan builds all four from day one.

Either way, the first step is the same: look at where you stand today and make a plan for where you want to be in 90 days.
